

Open-Rank, Tenure Track, Faculty Position In Critical Black Studies

R0000001901

Bucknell University

Bucknell University invites applications for a full-time, open rank, tenure-track faculty position in Critical Black Studies, for fall, 2026.

We seek a dynamic teacher-scholar with a Ph.D. in African American, Africana, or Black Studies, or related discipline with a specialization in these areas. Teaching responsibilities include Introduction to Critical Black Studies, courses in the candidate's fields, and courses that contribute to the university's general education curriculum with the possibility of future services as department chair. We are especially interested in candidates whose teaching and research will contribute to the Department's interdisciplinary synergy and analyses of anti-blackness as a fundamental, structuring animus impacting Black people.

We have a strong preference for candidates demonstrating a commitment to student-centered pedagogical and mentoring practices, and supporting students from historically marginalized groups. Teaching load is five courses over two semesters. We seek candidates with a Ph.D. by the start of appointment. Candidates in the final stages of completing their degree requirements will be considered, but must complete their degree requirements within the first year of employment at Bucknell in order to continue in this role.

For additional information and to apply, visit <https://apptrkr.com/6617670>. The application should include a cover letter, C.V., sample publication or paper, statement of teaching philosophy, course evaluations, and sample syllabi relevant to this position. Applicants that proceed to the interview stage must provide three confidential letters of recommendation. Questions may be addressed to: Professor Nina Banks at <mailto:nbanks@bucknell.edu>. Submit materials by November 1, 2025, for full consideration.
